

RECEPTIONS FOR D. A. R. WOMEN
All in Readiness for Opening of National Convention Here Tomorrow.
Numerous Committees in Session Yesterday
Question of Revising Constitution May Overshadow the Election.

Everything is in readiness today for the opening of the twenty-second annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Memorial Continental Hall tomorrow morning. More than 2,000 delegates and alternates from every state in the United States are already in the city, and more are expected to arrive today.

The many social features which do much to make the D. A. R. congresses notable were inaugurated last night when the daughters and members of other patriotic organizations were received at the New National Museum.

Richard Rathbun, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, received in place of Secretary Charles D. Walcott, who did not attend because of the recent death of his son, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, president general of the D. A. R., received for the daughters.

Preliminary Work Completed.
All of the preliminary work was completed yesterday. Numerous committee meetings were held. The national board of management was in session almost all day because of the great press of extra work.

The board meeting was attended by most of the members. It was the last meeting of the board which will be presided over by Mrs. Scott. The board's business was to take up the question of the revision of the constitution, which is to be taken up at the present congress.

Discussion of the revision of the constitution, which is to be taken up at the present congress, is to be taken up at the present congress. It is to be taken up at the present congress.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN
SUGAR SCHEDULE
Democratic Caucus Votes for Schedule as Approved by Wilson.

The President has left his stamp upon the tariff bill in indelible fashion. It was the meeting of the cabinet executive in the caucus of the democrats of the House yesterday afternoon, at the crucial moment when Representative Hardwick of Georgia, a radical free trader, was fighting for immediate free sugar, which marked the culmination of one of the bitterest fights the party has seen.

The proposition to change the tariff bill and make sugar free immediately was overthrown after the most determined effort, but the significant feature of the entire afternoon's work was the appeal made by stalwart democrats that the bill as written has the President's approval.

The sugar tariff, thus far the greatest bone of contention in the entire bill, will remain as the ways and means committee wrote it—with a small duty for three years and no duty at all thereafter.

Committee Victorious.
The ways and means committee, with Chairman Underwood leading it, is victorious, and the victory will have untold moral effect in the deciding of the other parts of the bill.

The fight on Hardwick's amendment to stick together is shown by the fact that its democratic members, including free traders as Harrison of New York and Rainey of Illinois, accepted the gradual reduction as written.

The storm has been general over the entire country. The forecast of the weather bureau, which predicts that the downpour will continue at least until tonight, is not far from the truth.

Cloudy weather and considerably low temperatures are predicted for tomorrow, but the forecast expressed the belief that the rain will not continue another day.

More than four inches of rain had fallen from the time the downpour began early Friday morning until midnight last night, according to the marks on the rain gauge at the weather bureau.

MISS KELLER TALKS
OF CITY'S BEAUTIES
Expresses Love of Flowers and Admiration for Corcoran Gallery Statues.

Miss Helen Keller, the talented young woman, who was born deaf, dumb and blind, but who has overcome these difficulties, and who is not only able to "listen" with her hands, but is able to speak quite clearly, arrived in this city last night. Together with her teacher and companion, Mrs. Macy, she is the guest of Dr. P. S. Smith of 3429 Newark street, Cleveland Park.

Miss Keller's sense of touch is remarkable. When a reporter called upon her last night, Dr. Smith's home was introduced by Mrs. Macy, who placed her hand in that of Miss Keller, and she said: "I feel your fingers. Instantly Miss Keller spoke the name quite clearly and correctly. But Mrs. Macy had neglected to mention the name of the paper the reporter represented.

"What paper are you with?" asked Miss Keller. Mrs. Macy told her. Miss Keller was eager to talk of the Capital City and its service in conducting an investigation in Washington, where she had obtained, from Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, a ticket toward her mental development.

Beauties of Washington.
"There are such beautiful things in Washington," said Miss Keller. "Oh, it is so nice here, with your Botanical Garden, your Zoological Park and, best of all, your Corcoran Art Gallery. I just love to get out and feel the flowers and the plants in the parks and gardens and the statues in the gallery. I could spend hours and hours in the art gallery studying the sculpture. There is the great statue of Napoleon during his last days. Its expression seems to reflect the mind of Napoleon in those days. It is just like seeing him down here in the city."

"There is that statue by St. Gaudens in Rock Creek cemetery," said Miss Keller. "I like it very much. It is a beautiful statue. It is a beautiful statue. It is a beautiful statue."

"Oh, that which nobody seems to know about is the statue of the Virgin Mary. It is so great. I like to study it. It is so great. I like to study it. It is so great. I like to study it."

"You know the Napoleon and St. Gaudens statue, don't you?" she asked the reporter. He confessed that he had not seen them. She said: "I will show you."

Mrs. Macy suggested to Miss Keller that reporters didn't have time to visit art galleries and cemeteries. She said: "I will show you."

Miss Keller attended the international fair in New York and Mrs. Macy said visitors there were amazed at the way Miss Keller distinguished the various flowers and plants.

Keeps Informed of Current Events.
Her knowledge of current happenings is remarkable. She always insists that Mrs. Macy read the newspapers to her and keep her informed as to what is going on in the world. Mrs. Macy reads with fingers or Mrs. Macy's lips with her hand. Mrs. Macy's fingers move at a remarkably rapid rate, but Miss Keller during the entire time she was talking to the reporter did not once ask that a question be repeated. She was asked what she intended to do while in Washington.

"I will not be afraid of getting stuck in the mud caused by the constant rains which you have been having in this city," she instantly replied. I should take the time in going around in the country about Washington and studying nature. Studying nature is my strong point, you know."

Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy will remain in Washington until Monday night, when they will leave for Maine to continue the lectures.

JONES HONORED AT CORNELL.
Athlete Is Voted Most Popular Man at University.

John Paul Jones of this city, who has made a big name for himself in Cornell athletics, and who is president of the senior class of the university, has been further honored by his class.

Each year it is customary to vote for the most popular man in the senior class, and the name of John Paul Jones was chosen by a large majority.

The man who has done most for the university. When the results were announced, a few days ago, Jones had received the largest number of votes.

Old Cornell men say this is almost unprecedented, at least since the undergraduate body was gradually being put to rest in the quiet of the college.

Chairman Parker H. Sweet of the committee on order announced his committee appointments last night as follows: Charles P. Crane, vice chairman; George C. Shinn, E. S. Brashers, Fred J. White, P. D. Cone, J. Sale Peston, J. Leo Kolb, Clarence Dodge, squad officer; William E. Burns, J. L. Dickson, E. H. Edwards, J. Lewis, George Pitt, Walter P. Plumley, Jerome M. Graham.

STATE OF APALACHIA
President Has Had One Conference With Ambassador
Chinda.

President Wilson has had one conference so far with Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador, who is expected to have others in the near future. In view of the ambassador's latest instructions regarding the California land-holding legislation.

It may be stated on the highest authority that at the stage of the very personal exchanges that have been in progress has there been anything in the nature of a "protest" from the Japanese government against what has been done in California.

The latest instructions to the ambassador from Tokyo look only to the continuance by the embassy of the course it has pursued from the beginning, of relying on moral suasion and the influence of the Japanese government against what has been done in California.

As far as can be gathered, the administration has listened with sympathetic interest to these personal representations, and while without legal authority at this moment to interfere with legislation in California, it has not hesitated to bring personal suasion to bear on the Japanese government.

While this is the present aspect of the exchanges that have been going on between the Japanese government and the United States, in the background is the practical certainty that if this sort of moral suasion fails, the United States will have to resort to legislation which the Japanese government regards as purely violative of Japanese rights in California.
